MONDAY, MAY 4, 1857.

KEY TO THE GEOLOGY OF THE GLOBE, by Richard Owen. New York: A. S. Barnes, 1857.—A taste for philosophical and scientific pursuits appears to be inherent in that branch of the Owen family which springs from the celebrated Robert Owen, of New Lanark, Scotland, who is yet a sprightly man, intellectually and physically, although near a century old. The various brothers in this country have greatly distinguished themselves, few men being more widely known than Robert Dale Owen, the U. S. Minister to Naples, and David Dale Owen, our State Geologist. A younger brother, the author of the volume before us, is at present Professor of Geology and Chemistry. He appears to possess much of the peculiar genius of the name, and has given to the world a treatise of great originality and much merit.

Perhaps the first, third, and eighth chapters of Prof. Owen's book will be found of most general interest. The practical rules for the miner in search of mineral wealth, and the inferences to be drawn by the physiologist from the whole investigation, are the two most important portions.

In the first chapter attention is called to the fact that a great many admeasurements, applied to continents, show them to be about 66 2/3 deg. long, and the same at their greatest width. The parallelism of certain coasts to the horizon, when the globe is elevated 23 1/2 deg., and of other coasts when the N. P. is depressed 23 1/2 deg. below the horizon; and of still another set, when the ecliptic coincides with the horizon, is pointed out. The law is demonstrated according to which upheavals have taken place, bringing metallic wealth to the surface, so that given geometrical lines will unite all the important localities for copper, &c., thus pointing out the line under which similar stores may probably be found hereafter. The parallelism of various mountain ranges to the above mentioned coasts is alluded to, and the great heights of land whence rivers diverge are indicated. The succession of rocks from the N. P. to the equator is explained in the text, and is rendered still more apparent by colored and other maps lithographed for that purpose. The numerous caverns and caves, especially along certain given lines, are supposed to promote the circulation of air and water through the looser materials intercalated between the rocks of the earth's crust.

In the 3d chapter, the anatomist and physiologist cannot fail to see the marked analogy which exists between this development of the earth and the germination of a seed in the vegetable world or of an egg in the animal kingdom. After giving a summary of the whole, the inferences are laid down that, to obtain the greatest amount of physical health, we must be careful and judicious in the selection of our diet, places of residence, &c., as well as also in the amount of our exercise; that, to secure mental vigor, we must educate all the faculties; and that, to preserve morality and attain to the greatest national excellence, we must provide social recreation, encourage suitable matrimonial relationships, and above all discourage the intermarriage of near blood relatives.

The Appendix contains a number of facts bearing on the points, placed under the separate chapter-headings, but not otherwise methodically arranged; and it closes with extracts calculated to incite to the fulfillment of the duties laid down in the ethical portion of the work.

This volume is well printed and appropriately illustrated. It is of Southern manufacture throughout, and we suppose will be for sale at our book-stores.

THE FRUIT.—The regular meeting of the Horticultural Society was held Saturday at the Agricultural Rooms, in the Merchant's Exchange building. Various interesting statements were made relative to the condition and prospects of the fruit crop in this region. The peaches are chiefly injured, but there will be a fair crop. Should there be no further cold weather cherries, strawberries, raspberries, pears, and apples will be abundant.

W. B. B.—Almost everybody familiar with our current popular literature must have very often seen these initials modestly set at the foot of some sweet little poem or at the head of some graceful and eloquent essay in the Home Journal or the National Intelligencer or elsewhere, and numbers, like ourselves, have no doubt wondered what name they stood for, and who the author of so many genial and beautiful effusions could be. To such the following telegraphic announcement of the other morning must have come with mournful interest:

WASHINGTON, April 20.

W. B. Buchanan, of Marshall county, Va., long and favorably known as the Virginia poet and author, and correspondent of the National Intelligencer and the Home Journal, died suddenly in this city to-day at 12 o'clock of disease of the heart. He was 63 years of age.

Thousands have thus learned at the same moment who their favorite essayist was and that he is no more. Such are the curious and solemn surprises of life.

W. B. B. was not a man of striking powers, but he has written some things that we think the world will delight to cherish. Judging him wholly by those emanations from his pen which have fallen under our eye, we should say that, without either genius or culture of a rare order, he possessed a warm and luxuriant fancy, a pure if not severe taste, and a quite unlimited command of rich and elegant language. His poetic sense was evidently large and susceptible, though not always true, and his sympathy with the beautiful in human character especially was most deep and passionate. He, however, possessed little or no creative power, and only a moderate degree of literary skill. His happiest efforts usually suggested the idea of having been made after contact with some superior nature either in books or life, and before the first fiery glow of sympathy had faded from his spirit. They seemed the emanations of a sort of intellectual galvanism rather than of legitimate inspiration. Still his productions were for the most part full of no common charm. His poetry, upon the whole, was, in our opinion, much more perfect than his prose, and occasionally was really exquisite.

We suppose that of course an early tribute will be paid by his friends to his character and literary achievements, when we shall happily know more of both.

EMBEZZLEMENT AND FORGERY.—On Saturday Augustus Schiekedang, the book-keeper of Messrs. E. & S. Lieberman, was committed to jail, having embezzled about $2,100 of the funds of his employers. Messrs. L. kept an account with John Smidt & Co. and the Bank of Louisville, and the business of making deposits was entrusted to Schiekedang. He had two bank books, the correct one being in his exclusive possession, and that in which he made the false entries was left at the store. A few days since one of the firm of Smidt & Co. incidentally remarked at Lieberman's that they had overdrawn their account some $1,800. This instantly aroused suspicion, and the embezzlement was discovered.

Some time ago Messrs. Lieberman gave Schiekedang a draft for $300 on New York. This he disposed of at A. D. Hunt & Co.'s, giving them a forged check on the Bank of Louisville. He was absent making other forged checks, in order to square his accounts, when discovered.

Schiekedang is a splendid penman and accountant, and formerly kept a commercial academy on Fourth street. He has been dealing in lottery tickets very extensively, and said that he hoped to draw a large prize by which he could rectify all his delinquencies.

One of the most significant and cheering results of the late Parliamentary elections in Great Britain has been the numerous triumphs of the Liberals over the Tories in Ireland. Perhaps the most notable of these triumphs is that won by the tenant-farmers in the County Derry, formerly one of the stiffest Tory counties in all Ireland. Mr. Greer, a leading champion of "tenant-right," and who has thrice unsuccessfully contested this famous old county, has now been returned by a large majority over the Tory candidate. A hardly less emphatic victory has been won by the Liberals in four or five other Irish counties, notwithstanding the combined opposition, in one or two instances, of both the Catholic and Episcopal clergy. These flattering triumphs are justly hailed by the liberal Irish press as the earnest of greater ones yet to be won. They constitute the fairest proof we have seen that Ireland is not only able but willing to achieve self-regeneration. Heretofore Irish patriotism has been too prone to exhibit rather than earnestly employ itself, but these recent popular victories, implying as they do the most patient, systematic, and continued effort, show clearly that the day of mere empty agitation in Ireland has passed away, and that the nobler day of work has come. Undoubtedly this will usher in the political freedom of the "green Isle."

The Detroit Advertiser states that Senator Douglas has given $100 to establish what it calls a pro-slavery church at Washington, and adds: "We believe that Douglas has at times, when stamping his own State, made pretensions of being, at heart, in favor of freedom, but this gift shows his proclivities too clearly to require comment." We are no admirers of Douglas's general public department, but we can't help thinking that the Advertiser's sneer at his donation to a church is extremely silly as well as pitiful.

CHILD POISONED.—Yesterday a woman named Ann Smith was arrested, charged with having produced the death of a child six years old, by giving it poison. She is a tenant of the parent of the child. The coroner held an inquest. We suppose that a scientific investigation of the stomach, by qualified gentlemen, will be ordered.

According to the advices by the steamer Africa, Spain is anxious for the friendly interposition of France and England in her quarrel with Mexico. Not that she feels the slightest doubt of her ability to thrash Mexico handsomely, but simply because, notwithstanding her hot indignation, she would not for anything act precipitately. Of course not "Mother," exclaimed a swaggering fellow on the 'perilous edge' of a fight, "hold me, or I fear I shall do something rash!"

PERSONAL.—Under this head a contemporary gives an account of the erection of a statue to Martin Luther.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

PORTLAND TELEGRAPH LINE.
Office at Portland, Delme's Drug Store, on the wharf.
Office at Shippingport, in the Canal Office.
Office at Louisville, Darratt's Clothing Store, corner Fourth and Water streets.

The river is rising pretty fast. Last evening there were 7 feet 9 inches water in the canal and 4 feet 11 inches on the falls. The weather is cool and cloudy. The late rain has extended to the headwaters, and the Ohio from Pittsburgh down, as well as all its tributaries, are rising fast. The Kentucky river was rising on Saturday. Salt river was pouring out at a tremendous rate yesterday.

For New Orleans.—The Woodford, Capt. Mathers, leaves for New Orleans to-day. She is a fine boat and affords good accommodations and fare. The Woodford arrived yesterday, and we were furnished by her polite clerks, Messrs. McLaughlin and Joe Benedict, with late papers and copies of the manifest and memorandum. A card from the passengers of the Woodford, highly complimentary, will be found in our columns.

The H. D. Newcomb.—This fleet and elegant steamer is advertised to leave for New Orleans this evening. The Newcomb is commanded by Capt. Spotts, with Messrs. Landrum and Barclay as clerks. The N. is a first class passenger packet.

For St. Louis.—The Fashion is the regular packet for St. Louis to-day. She is a safe boat and in charge of skillful officers. We are indebted to her attentive officers for papers. The cabin passage on the Fashion is only $8.

For Henderson.—This is the day for the departure of the regular Henderson packet Statesman. She will leave this evening. We are indebted to her attentive clerk for a copy of the manifest.

The Jacob Strader is the mailboat for Cincinnati to-day. The Clara Dean is up for Pittsburg.

The Champion, a towboat, tried to come up over the falls, but she could not stem the current. She has been made fast to the Indiana shore, immediately above the bend, and will make another trial to come over to-day. She is a towboat and too large for the locks in the canal.

The Eclipse was to leave New Orleans last Saturday for this port.

Pittsburg freights are extraordinary scarce here and elsewhere. The Clara Dean has been lying here since Thursday waiting to get a cargo. All the boats from St. Louis and Nashville for Cincinnati and Pittsburg pass here light.

The Fashion reports having met the David White laden to the guards.

The R. J. Ward.—The following dispatch has been received:

VICKSBURG, May 1.

SILAS F. MILLER.

The Ward will arrive Tuesday and leave Thursday. All well.

Shaft Broke.—The packet Wm. Dickson is lying up at Caseyville with a broken shaft. Mr. Stuart, one of the clerks, has arrived with the shaft to have it welded.

Coalboats Aground.—We understand that two coalboats, from Pittsburg to New Orleans, are hard aground between Cairo and Memphis.

THE ELECTION.—On Saturday occasioned but little interest, and the vote was small. All the American candidates were elected. In two districts they had opposition, and in the other two none.

In the first district, M. G. Holmes was elected magistrate over John Downing, and Simeon B. Webb constable over J. W. Osborne.

In the second district, James Grubb was elected constable without opposition.

In the third district John M. Farrar was elected constable over Robert Storey by about two hundred majority.

In the fourth district, Wm. W. Twyman was elected constable without opposition.

THIEF AND COUNTERFEITER ARRESTED.—On Saturday Officer Say arrested a man named Kineman, who is a pedlar and travels along the route of the New Albany and Salem Railroad. He was attempting to sell a fine masonic apron on Market street, and gave various accounts of the manner in which it had been obtained. Upon being placed in jail seventy dollars of bogus money was found in his possession. Any person having lost any regalia of the character mentioned above, will please call on Mr. Seay at the city court room.

The following are the terms upon which Mr. John Bates has leased his theaters in this city and Cincinnati to Mr. Lewis Baker, of Philadelphia: The lease of the Louisville is for eight years, at $4,000 per annum, and of the National, Cincinnati, for ten years, at $8,000. Mr. Baker to spend on the latter house $10,000, the improvements at the expiration of the lease to belong to Mr. Bates.

TEMPERANCE ALLIANCE.—We understand that the members of the various Protestant churches in the upper part of the city are about to form an alliance against intemperance. The first public meeting will be held next Thursday night, at the Fourth Presbyterian church, on Hancock street, near Main. Addresses will be delivered.

ROBBERY.—On Thursday night Mr. James Clark, residing about fifteen miles from Bardstown, was robbed of the following money: One $100 bill on the Commercial Bank of Kentucky, one $50 bill on the Northern Bank of Kentucky; one $50 Bank of Kentucky; $75, consisting of one $20, three $10's, and five $5's; and $100 in gold and silver.

Rev. E. E. Hale, of Boston, on Wednesday evening gave a lecture at Warren street Chapel on Public Amusements. He defended the theater, and advocated the drama when conducted as it should be. The reverend gentleman thinks the New Englanders work too much and play too little.

CRIMINAL COURT.—The spring term of this court commences this morning. The docket is an unusually large one, and the cases are of more magnitude than usual.

MECHANIC FIRE COMPANY.—The members of the Mechanic had another drill on Saturday night, preparatory to their eastern tour. They were led by the New Albany Silver Band.

In an affray at New Orleans on Sunday last, John Carnes dangerously wounded one Donohoe. Donohoe was the aggressor. Carnes surrendered himself.

Romulus S. Chipman was convicted in Greensboro, North Carolina, on Tuesday of last week, of the murder of Miss Penix, whom he had previously seduced, and the 15th of May was fixed upon for his execution, but he has appealed to the Supreme Court.

The prisoner is a young man; only twenty years of age, of very good appearance, good education, and appeared in the court room well dressed. His parents are both living, are of the highest respectability, and are wealthy. His mother has written several religious volumes of interest. The evidence on which he was convicted was entirely circumstantial, but overwhelming.

POSTAGE TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES.—The Postmaster General has just issued a new table of instructions to postmasters, in which he fixes the rate of single letters of half an ounce or under to Great Britain at 24 cents; do to any part of Germany by closed mail 30 cents; do to most parts of Germany by the Bremen line direct 15 cents; do for quarter-ounce letters to Germany, via France, 21 cents; do for quarter ounce letters to any part of France or Algeria 15 cents. Prepayment optional in all cases. The rates for letters to Canada and other British North American provinces is 10 cents, prepayment optional.

THE NEW GOVERNOR OF MINNESOTA.—Hon. Samuel Medary, the new Governor of Minnesota, was duly installed into office at the Capital of the Territory on the 23d ult. The Governor had the mishap to be wrecked on the day previous. He and about 250 other passengers were on board the Time-and-Tide, which vessel, when about fifteen miles from St. Paul, was struck by a heavy field of floating ice, which caused her to leak so much that her officers were obliged to run her on shore. No lives were lost.

The New York Mirror says that not less than seven hundred persons have been affected, some thirty of them fatally, with the National Hotel poison. Senator Hale, of New Hampshire, has become a thin, lean man under its ravages, and Gov. Walker, of Kansas, has not yet recovered from his experience. There are also several persons in New York city whose recovery from the poison is doubtful.

Certain people in the Canadian Parliament have been charged with receiving heavy bribes for pushing through railway charters and contracts. Proofs of bribery in one instance to the amount of $50,000, and in another of $100,000, are said to have been discovered, and will be produced in evidence before the railway committee.

Two fires occurred at Nashville on Wednesday night. One of them burned and damaged the stock of Gilbert & Co. to the amount of $3,500, and the other damaged the tobacco factory of Meredith to the amount of $8,000. Both insured.

Dennis Coughlin, a Democratic Alderman in Buffalo, has been sent to jail for drunkenness and riotous conduct.

There died in this city yesterday, Patsy Holder, an old and faithful servant of Mrs. Denny. Her funeral will occur this afternoon.

[From this morning's Journal.]

NEW YORK, May 2.

This evening's Post says there are surmises of an armed resistance by Mayor Wood to the new legislative enactments relative to our city. A hundred muskets have been placed in the station house of the Nineteenth ward.

The Democratic members of the Common Council will meet in caucus to consider on further legal means of resistance.

Wm. C. Bryant and family left for Havre to-day in the ship Wm. Tell.

A large detachment of marines will leave this port on Tuesday, under Lieut. Browne, to reinforce the squadron in the Pacific.

WASHINGTON, May 2.

There are several hundred applicants here for foreign consularships. Mr. Cass informed his friends that the subject of consular appointments would not be acted upon until early in June.

Lewis S. Patridge is appointed Marshal for Vermont.

MEMPHIS, May 2.

There has been a jubilee at the opening of the Memphis and Charleston Railroad yesterday and to-day. The city has been crowded, and it is estimated that there were fifteen thousand strangers present. The display generally was very fine. A quantity of water from the Atlantic ocean was poured into the Mississippi river to-day, to symbolize the union of the two cities.

NEW ORLEANS, May 2.

Advices from the city of Mexico to the 18th say that the Archbishop and several of the priests have been arrested for attempting an insurrection. The Archbishop will be banished.

Two British war vessels have arrived at Sacrificos, causing speculation as to their object. The supposition that they were sent to bully the government, has probably delayed the settlement of the English question.

Rumors are rife of an intended filibustering expedition to Sonora and Lower California.

EVANSVILLE, May 2.

The steamers Melnotte, St. Lawrence, John C. Fremont, Memphis, Gulnare, Belle Creole, Moses Greenwood, Woodford, Fashion, Landis, and W. J. Macley passed up. The steamers Empress, Alvin Adams, Northern, Prairie Rose, and Glendale passed down.

River falling.

CINCINNATI, May 2, P. M.

The weather is cool and cloudy. River rising—9 feet in the channel.

PITTSBURG, May 2, P. M.

River 7 feet 8 inches. The weather is cloudy and damp.

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

NEW ORLEANS, April 25th, 1857.

This region was visited by another frost on the morning of the 22d inst., making the third or fourth since March. It is now quite evident that the cold season has had a serious effect upon the crops in all parts of the State. The last frost no doubt killed all the cotton, and probably much of the replanted corn north of Red river. Cotton seed has become scarce in several of the parishes, and numerous orders have been sent here to purchase for replanting. The cane has suffered severely, and the best of it is now backward for the season. More than one half of the ratoons from the plant of last year, it is thought, can not be depended upon for another crop. Of course the upper sections of the State, still it is lower than the hope that the bright promise held out in February will be anything like realized, however favorable the coming season may prove. The weather is now quite cool and raw, making fires necessary for comfort.

THE LOUISVILLE GUARDS.—This fine military company, recently reorganized under the command of Capt. Larry B. White, designs visiting Lexington on the 4th of July, on the occasion of laying the corner stone of the Clay Monument. They will take with them their splendid twelve pounder.

LAND WARRANTS.—The financial circular of Messrs. Sweeney, Rittenhouse, & Co., of Washington, of the 27th, says:

The supply of land warrants has largely increased, and the demand being light, prices have suddenly fallen off two cents per acre. We quote the market dull at the following rates, viz:

	Buying rate.	Selling rate.
40 acres.....	$1 10 1/2	$1 12 1/2
80 do.....	1 10 00	1 01 00
120 do.....	1 00 00	97 00
160 do.....	95 00	94 00

The land sales which were advertised to have taken place at one of the offices in Iowa on the 4th of May next, in consequence of the Indian disturbances, have been suspended for the present; which has contributed to depress the market.

THE FRUIT AND CROPS AT THE SOUTH.—The intelligent editor of the New Orleans Commercial Bulletin says:

We have had some experience and familiarity with cotton and corn fields, and a little knowledge of sugar cane, and we have never witnessed such unfavorable prospects at this season of the year. During the present month we have had several frosts, and a nipping one as late as Thursday night, the 23d inst. The cotton and corn are cut down, and in many fields we passed through a couple of days since we noticed that the small blades of the corn were as shriveled and parched as if they had been burned. It is, to be sure, not too late to replant either cotton or corn, but then the earth is so dry that the seed will not sprout or germinate. The cane looks miserably sickly, and is from three to four weeks later in its growth than usual at this time of the spring.
